

About Us

Founded by Monica H. Kang, InnovatorsBox[®] specializes in the science and strategy of workplace creativity to help you reskill for the future of work. Our research-based and interactive programs drive culture transformation, leadership development, and team building in a way that is fun, relatable, and actionable.

The Problem

Why Creativity Matters?

Companies are being replaced, employee retention remains a concern, managing cross-generational teams poses new challenges. Those who fail to remain relevant will find themselves left behind.

Navigating creativity in the workplace can be tricky. Meetings may be full of uncertainty. An open office space, unlimited vacation time, or ping pong tables do not magically build a creative and innovative workplace. Your people, culture, and environment do. We should get to know each other if you struggle with this. We can help you.

“Monica is not your average facilitator. Her style is unique, powerful, out-of-the-box, fun, and most importantly, memorable. She drew out the best in our team, brought us all together, and helped us look at familiar problems through an unfamiliar lens.”

-NBC Universal

“Monica is able to facilitate an instant connection with her audience. She’s approachable, kind, but above all else, inspiring.” -Georgetown University

“Monica’s exercises got the group to bond together quickly, to come up with dozens of new ideas, and helped us re-examine what we’re capable of.”
